Scarcity, Endurance, Independence

Edelweiss Holdings plc is a privately-held and self-managed investment holding company* based in Jersey, Channel Islands.

We hold long-term participations in the production, chemistry and technology of food, materials, energy and various industrial and engineering endeavours, as well as foundational reserves in the form of gold bullion. Our investment collection is built around ideas that matter: resilience, a business owner's approach to risk-taking, enduring economic relevance, and the rewards of honest entrepreneurship.

Our roots and tradition began in 1985 as a family investment practice. The current company was formed in 2001 as an open-end fund and became a private holding company in 2015. Throughout this era of booms and busts, our solemn objective has remained the same: to protect and preserve the purchasing power of our shareholders' irreplaceable savings, and to convey our collection of economic assets, along with a sense of honest and responsible stewardship, to future generations.

 As a private holding company, Edelweiss Holdings plc does not have an offering memorandum or a published investment policy and its shareholders have no right to redemption as is the case with investment funds.*
